Ensuring Quality Transitions to Community Life
7th Annual Institute
Inviting Applications for Participation

In collaboration with its community partners, the NC Department of Health and Human Services proudly announces the 7th Annual NC Community Transitions Institute. This initiative provides a hands-on, collaborative learning opportunity for professionals who assist individuals with long-term care needs to transition from facility settings to their homes and communities.

About the Institute

The NC Community Transitions Institute (“The Institute”) is a hands-on, collaborative learning opportunity for professionals who support individuals with long-term care needs to transition from facility settings to their homes and communities. The program is designed to bring together diverse stakeholders who support transitioning individuals and to develop best practices throughout the lifecycle of a transition. This Institute builds off existing person-centered thinking and motivational interviewing principles. However, the Institute furthers these principles and provides practical strategies for applying the principles in a transition context.

The Institute will be a blended format this year incorporating:

- A Transitions Symposium exploring community-based resources important to support individuals in a quality transition landscape (Required Attendance) – This portion of the Institute will be in a virtual format (Zoom).
- An immersive session focused on improving person-centered collaboration and communication skills inspired by motivational interviewing techniques and person-centered thinking practices (Required Attendance) – This portion of the Institute will be live/face-to-face in Cary.
- A deep dive workshop in Person-Centered Thinking (Optional Attendance) – This portion of the Institute will be in a virtual format (Zoom).
- A deep dive workshop in Motivational Interviewing (Optional Attendance) – This portion of the Institute will be live/face-to-face in Cary.

2022 Institute Format

Due to the ongoing COVID-19 situation, the 2022 Institute will be held as a blended event. Based on infection patterns from 2021 we are structuring this year around those patterns where infection rates in the spring began declining and staying lower in July and early August. Therefore, the first two portions (Transitions Symposium and Person-Centered Thinking) will be held virtually through Zoom and the last two portions (Motivational Interviewing and Person-Centered Collaborative Communication) will be held as live, face-to-face events in Cary. We are also expanding the amount of time for the Motivational Interviewing and Person-Centered Collaborative Communication live sessions. Based on past experience, there has been a need for additional time to practice the skills, and this year we are building that additional time into the schedule so that participants can experience a deeper dive.

Also, in recognition of the ongoing COVID-19 situation, we want to ensure that we take all precautions to enable full participation of Institute members. Therefore, we are limiting participation to 50 people this year. We will also follow all COVID guidelines that are in place at the time of the live sessions.

Introduction to “The Institute”

The NC Community Transitions Institute (“The Institute”) is a summer-long, hands-on, collaborative learning opportunity for professionals who support individuals with long-term care needs to transition from facility settings to their homes and communities. The program is designed to bring together diverse stakeholders who support transitioning individuals and to develop best practices throughout the lifecycle of a transition. This Institute builds off existing person-centered thinking and motivational interviewing principles and practices. However, the Institute furthers these and provides practical strategies for applying the principles in a transition context. All Institute activities are organized to foster collaboration and networking among members. The Institute is a professional development initiative supported by the NC Department of Health and Human Services’ Money Follows the Person Demonstration Project.

“It has given me the basic foundation I needed with regards to concepts of patient-centered thinking / motivational interviewing that was needed to take our program to the next level.”

“It allowed me to open my eyes to my previous practices when working with patients on care transitions and enabled me to get out of my comfort zone to learn and practice new concepts/skills that enabled me to grow.”

“Such an amazing opportunity to network and connect with professionals who can relate to transition work. With the complexities of transition work it is so nice to know we’re not alone!”

Background on the Institute Concept

Across the country and within North Carolina, an increasing number of long-term care facility residents are choosing to transition into their homes and communities, with the supports they need to do so. Effectively supporting an individual's transition requires strong coordination between the resident, the resident's family, and the professional network that will support him/her through the transition and once s/he returns to the community. In addition, as an increasing number of individuals transition – many of whom experience significant clinical and social complexities – the need for strong transition supports becomes increasingly apparent.

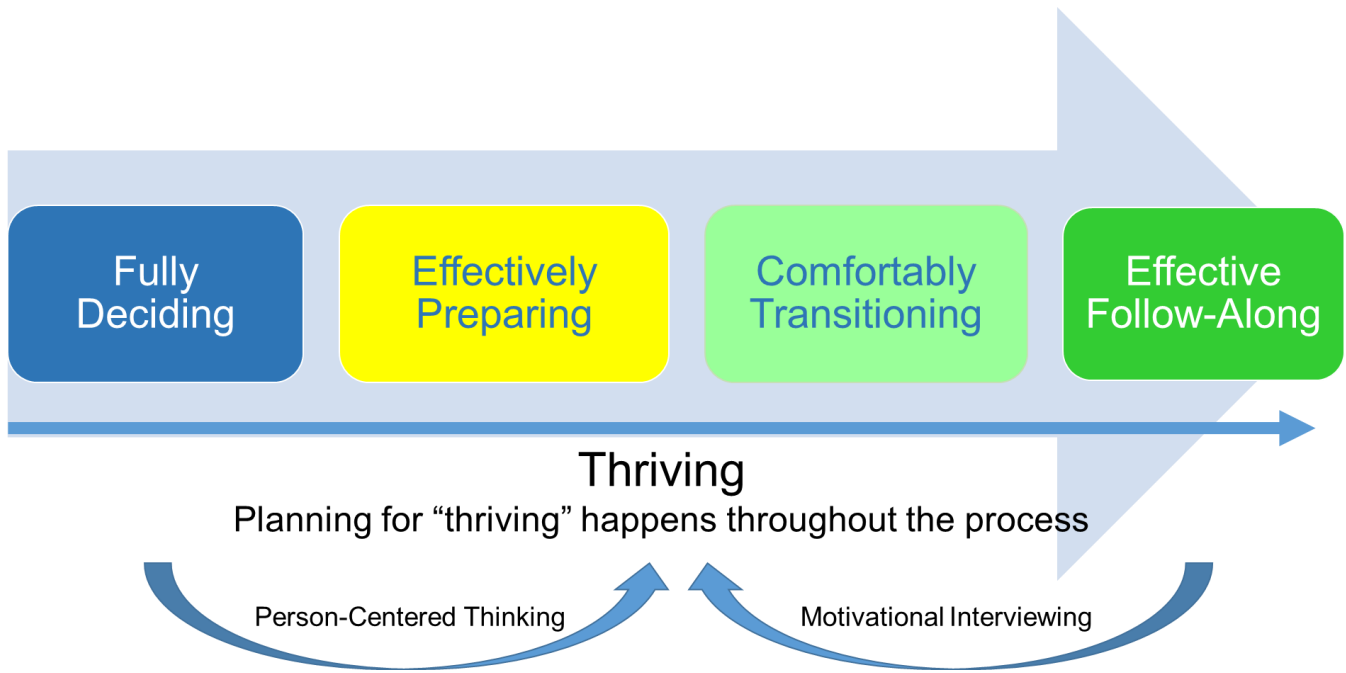

Quality transition practices ensure the effective integration of physical, behavioral, social, and long-term services for transitioning individuals. Strong, coordinated transitions are also more likely to facilitate improved health outcomes and positive quality of life outcomes once a person has transitioned.

Despite the Department's increased activity related to all stages and the functions performed in each stage, there is currently no consistent, Department-wide, competency-based standard or curriculum used to ensure consistency on core transition concepts across the long-term care communities and to train on resources specific to North Carolina. As the need for transition capacity becomes increasingly recognized, we established a Departmental project, the NC Community Transitions Institute: Ensuring Quality Transitions to Community Life. This effort furthers the workforce capacity development priorities outlined as part of the Partnership for Healthy NC, Medicaid Reform initiative.

Elements of Quality Transition Planning

To strengthen the state’s “transition capacity” the transition experience must be enhanced. This is achieved by addressing key issues throughout the life cycle of a transition. The Institute addresses these key issues by focusing on collaborative communication practices using person-centered principles and strategies that are inspired by motivational interviewing.
